Axis Leaders Hold Lengthy Conference on Future Policy

Foreign Ministers Consult With Adolf Hitler SECRET TALKS

'Just Reviewing General European Situation,' Officials Say

Berchtesgaden, Germany.—(P)—Adolf Hitler and the foreign ministers of Germany and Italy held a lengthy conference on Rome-Berchtesgaden axis policy today in the fuhrer's mountain chalet near here.

Hitler gave Count Galeazzo Ciano the Italian minister, a hearty welcome when he arrived by motor car from Salzburg at 1:30 p. m. (6:30 a. m., C.S.T.).

There was a roll of drums from the fuhrer's black-uniformed body guard as Ciano's car rolled up in front of the Berghof. Stepping out on the terrace the fuhrer, accompanied by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, greeted his guest and personally conducted him into the house.

Confer After Lunch

The conference began after a luncheon given in honor of Ciano. Premier Mussolini's representative and son-in-law, Ciano was late leaving Salzburg and it was believed the delay was caused by a last-minute telephone talk with Duce.

What the two foreign ministers have discussed since their conference opened yesterday remained a secret but it was taken for granted in Germany that all important decisions would be taken at the meeting with Hitler.

A German official, however, declared: "You need not expect any sensational announcement. They are just reviewing the general European situation."

The German-Polish situation was believed to hold the top place on the agenda. A further development in the situation was the publication in German newspapers of front-page accounts of alleged persecutions of Germans by Poles who, it was charged, had killed six Germans and seriously wounded 21 in the past five weeks.

Alliance Discussion

The possibility of Japan's joining the German-Italian alliance also has been listed as among the subjects on the agenda but a Tokyo dispatch said indications had strengthened that Japan's civilian leaders were taking a firmer stand against militarist agitation for such an alliance.

The newspaper Asahi declared Premier Baron Kichiro Hiranuma yesterday was opposing any change in the policy on European commitments, a policy which was understood to propose a strengthening of the anti-communist pact but to rule out a military alliance.

Activities directed toward another alliance took place in Moscow where staff talks among military leaders of Soviet Russia, Great Britain and France were opened.

The talks are connected with the proposed tri-power mutual assistance pact, negotiations for which have been proceeding for five months.

Child Seriously Hurt When Pole Collapses

Dodgeville, Wis.—(P)—Jackie Ott, 9-year old son of Mrs. Hattie Ott, of Dodgeville, was in critical condition at St. Joseph's hospital here today after he was crushed by a falling telephone pole. While playing yesterday at a farm where he was visiting, the boy, to stop himself ran against the pole, the base of which was decayed. The pole collapsed and fell on Jackie's head, fracturing the skull in three places.

Norma Talmadge Gets Divorce From Jessel

El Paso, Texas.—(P)—Norman Talmadge, star of the silent screen, and George Jessel, radio and screen comedian, went their separate ways today.

Miss Talmadge was granted a divorce in Juarez, Mexico, on grounds of incompatibility. No property settlement was involved.

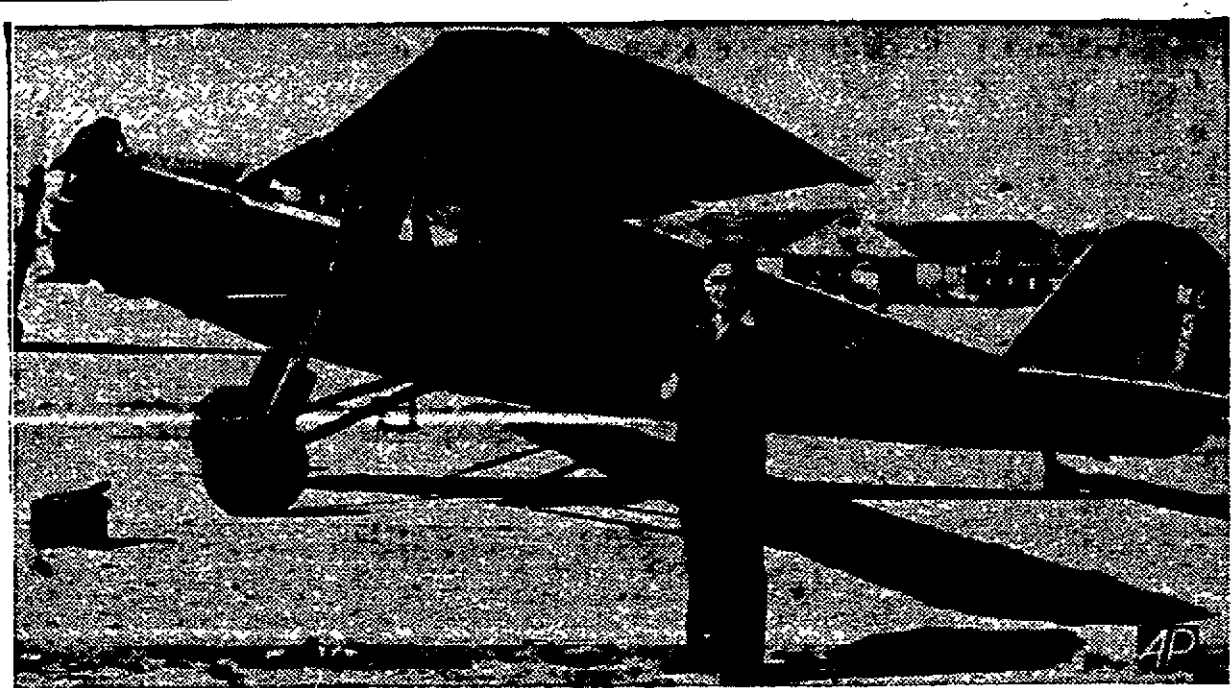

Sharp-Eyed But Well Curved

A score of shapely young women, sworn in as police-women in New York City, were warned by Mayor La Guardia "If you grow fat you won't be half as valuable to the department." Correct. Fatness is inconvenient, especially in the head. Glad to say, these new lady cops are so pleasant to the eye that no man could object to being arrested by any one of them. Or even two. It's a matter of taste. Like choosing between two attractive classified wanted ads in The Post-Crescent. This one had fine appeal.

TWO AVIATORS DARE ATLANTIC IN LIGHT AIRPLANE

Taking off in a light plane from near St. Peter's, N. S. Alex Loeb, 32, and Dick Decker, 23, started on a transatlantic flight, announcing their destination as Ireland. Loeb is shown above at Roosevelt Field, L. I., with the ship in which they had fuel for about 25 hours of flying.

Board Launches Probe in Crash Of Army Bomber

Officials to Investigate Accident Which Killed 9 Men

Langley Field, Va.—(P)—An army plane crashed near here today in the second crackup and burning of a Langley field plane in 24 hours. The pilot and a passenger jumped in parachutes.

The ship, an attack plane, fell near Fort Eustis several miles from here while engaged in a routine flight. Post officials said the plane burned.

The plane was piloted by Second Lieutenant C. T. Murrell, of the air corps reserves, and the passenger was Private Amelio Lenzen.

Langley Field, Va.—(P)—A three-man board of inquiry probed today into the fire-seared wreckage of a Douglas B-18-A bomber that crashed during a take-off, killing two commissioned officers and seven enlisted men.

The plane, attached to the 21st reconnaissance squadron, developed trouble shortly after it left the field about 12:30 p. m. (C.S.T.) yesterday and plunged to the ground from an altitude of about 150 feet.

Witnesses said the field plane had just cleared the field when one of the two engines sounded as if it were "cutting-out." The pilot, Second Lieutenant Homer M. Mackay, apparently in an effort to bring the ship down safely, put it into a steep glide toward the waters of Back river, a short distance away.

Bursts Into Flames

The plane however, went into a dive and crashed, bursting into flames almost immediately.

The intense heat of gasoline flames spouting from the plane beat back efforts of rescuers to reach the men imprisoned in the fuselage and it was not until nearly two hours later that the bodies could be removed from the wreckage.

Army officials listed the dead as: Second Lieutenant Homer M. Mackay, native of Lansing, Mich.; Private Amelio Lenzen, of Burnsville, N. C.; Technical Sergeant William Morgan, Norton, Va.; Staff Sergeant Raymond Shelley, Oakdale, La.; Staff Sergeant Everett Kirkpatrick, Quilness, Wash.; Staff Sergeant Howard A. Jauernig, Meridian, Idaho; Corporal Etey Bunyk, New Kensington, Pa.; Private Anthony Reale, Milwaukee, Wis.; Private Roy B. Leopold, East Mauch Chunk, Pa.

Welles Continues Negotiations in Oil Lands Dispute

Washington.—(P)—Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, said today he expected to hold further conferences with representatives of the Mexican government and American oil companies concerning negotiations over expropriated oil properties.

He told reporters at his press conference that he planned to see Donald Richberg, counsel for the companies, on Monday and that he probably would confer earlier with Mexican Ambassador Francisco Castillo Najera. He added that he might have something to say on the subject after the discussions.

Both Richberg and the ambassador conferred separately with Welles last week.

Negotiations apparently were deadlocked over the question of whether the Mexican government or the companies would control future operations of the oil properties.

Through the ambassador, Mexico let it be known that any agreement must include a board of directors and management controlled by the companies.

Lower Florida Hit By Tropical Storm

Tampa.—(P)—A small tropical storm which caused minor damage in its overnight passage across the lower Florida peninsula brought blustery weather to this section today as it passed into the gulf just north of here.

Moving in from the Atlantic near Jupiter on the Florida east coast late yesterday, the disturbance brought torrential rains and gusty winds up to 55 miles an hour in its northwestern path.

Lift Squalus and Her 26 Dead From Ocean Floor in Difficult History-Making Salvage Feat

Portsmouth, N. H.—(P)—The submarine Squalus, raised 80 feet from the ocean floor and towed almost two miles with her crew of 26 dead, struck an uncharted pinnacle today, forcing salvagers to wait for a rising tide before bringing her nearer land.

Portsmouth, N. H.—(P)—Climaxing successfully the most difficult phase of a history-making salvage operation, the United States navy today lifted the flooded submarine Squalus and her 26 dead from the ocean floor that has gripped her almost continuously since May 23.

Shortly before 8 a. m. (C.S.T.) the three pontoons attached to the tremendously heavy water-filled stern of the craft broke the surface amid a wild flurry of foam, indicating the after compartment had been lifted 80 feet from the bottom.

Without warning, save for a sudden burst of air bubbles, the three topmost stern pontoons broke the surface simultaneously, throwing foam fully 15 feet into the air. The pontoons themselves broke almost clear of the water, sank beneath the surface and rose again to ride side by side on the calm sea.

Work Smoothly

Working smoothly and without outside sign of flurry, the stripped-to-the-waist salvage crew ran well within its lifting schedule. The air pumps of the salvage ship Falcon started pounding shortly after 5 a. m. (4 a. m., C.S.T.) An hour later, Admiral C. W. Cole announced the six topmost pontoons above the bow and the stern had been filled and that action was but, a matter of minutes. Nevertheless, the navy worked with great care towards its final goal.

A calm sea stirred only by the smallest ground swell, a clear warm sun and an absence of breeze aided in avoiding such a catastrophe as attended the first lifting effort on July 13, when the Squalus broke loose from supporting cables.

Hardly had the navy tug Wadank swung into position ahead of the Falcon, in preparation for towing both the salvage ship and the Squalus toward shore later in the day, than the first air bubbles broke the surface above the submarine's bow.

Bridges Defense Attacks Witness

San Francisco.—(P)—The fifth week of Harry Bridges' deportation hearing was ended today, with the defense deep in an attack on credibility of the Australian-born labor leader as a communist, high in the councils of the party.

All day yesterday, defense attorneys hammered at John L. Leech, housepainter of Portland, Ore., formerly of Los Angeles, who testified he knew all about Bridges as a communist when he was one himself. He has resigned from the party now, he says, and no longer agrees with its tenets.

The government charges Bridges is a deportable alien because of assumed membership in a party advocating violent overthrow of the American government.

Aubrey Grossman, defense attorney, sought to show that Leech had accepted relief aid in Los Angeles days either had been signed or rejected, White House officials announced, and the president was looking forward to a period of carefree relaxation on the new cruiser Tuscaloosa and perhaps a bit of fishing.

Claim Relief Clients Have Defrauded County

Chicago Mayor Asks 3rd Term For Roosevelt

Illinois Man Is Named Head of Young Democrats

BACK NEW DEAL Speeches Stir Possibility of McNutt Candidacy

Pittsburgh.—(P)—After cheering a "demand" by Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago that President Roosevelt run for a third term, the national convention of Young Democratic clubs today elected a 28-year-old New Dealer, Homer Mat Adams of Champaign, Ill., as its president for the next two years.

The vote was unanimous. Adams, assistant director of finance for Illinois, was placed in nomination by Pat Beacom, Huntington, W. Va., who withdrew in favor of Adams two days ago.

He said Adams was a man who "will lead our democracy in the glorious path blazed by our great president" and was "young, progressive, vigorous, seasoned in politics despite his youth, and a tried and successful executive."

Wild Demonstration

The speech set off a wild demonstration which lasted nearly 15 minutes.

Harry Shank of Columbus, Ohio, final candidate to withdraw from the presidency, told the convention "we must put personalities aside and put ourselves behind the people that we stand firmly behind the liberal program of the great emancipator, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago today demanded that President Roosevelt run for a third term.

Kelly told the convention he believed a third term was the sentiment of the convention.

Recalling Roosevelt's words that he had enlisted for the duration of the "social struggle," the mayor said:

"In this economic war against starvation and unemployment and in this social struggle against insecurity, Mr. President, we demand that you continue as commander-in-chief of our liberal humanitarian government."

"You have lost your right to your own personal life. You do not belong to yourself. You belong to the people and the people want your continued leadership."

"We want your steady voice to lead our cause. We want your steady head and hands to guide us in the American way that we should go."

CAUSES SPECULATION

Washington.—(P)—The capital wondered today whether Paul V. McNutt might go into the 1940 Democratic convention with President Roosevelt's endorsement as a "liberal" candidate for the presidential nomination.

Speculation as to the federal secretary's chances of winning such White House support, in event Mr. Roosevelt does not seek a third term, was stirred by events at the national convention of Young Democrats in Pittsburgh.

On Thursday, the president sent a message to the convention warning that, if the Democrats nominated "conservative candidates or lip-service candidates on a stridently active party" in such an unfortunate suicide of the old Democratic party.

Cheer Roosevelt

Last night, McNutt set the Young Democrats to cheering wildly with a speech praising Mr. Roosevelt as the "greatest living exemplar of Democratic liberalism" and outlining a program of what he called modern liberalism.

Developments at the Pittsburgh meeting not only led to talk of possible Roosevelt support for the

The groom, occupant of an "iron lung" for more than three years, and his bride of three days, the former Teresa Larkin of Dayton, Ohio, still toyed with the idea of going eventually to Niagara Falls. For the time being, however, they were content to remain at the Snite home in suburban River Forest.

Trio Fails to Save Chum From Drowning

Manistiquie, Mich.—(P)—Three companions were unable to prevent Arnold Ott, 18, from drowning yesterday when a gale upset their small boat in Indian lake, 500 feet offshore. The three saved themselves by swimming to shore, and attempted to aid Ott by removing his jacket when he ran into difficulty.

New York—(P)—President Roosevelt boarded the cruiser Tuscaloosa at 10:45 a. m. (C.S.T.) today for a vacation cruise off the New England and Canadian coasts. He had motored here from his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

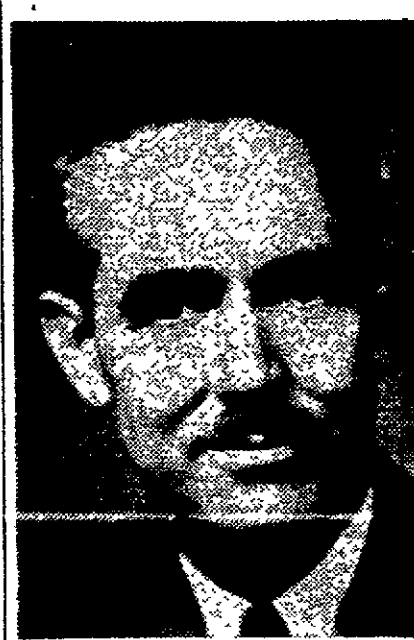

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(P)—President Roosevelt completed today his job of passing judgment on legislation and departed for New York for the start of a seafarer's vacation.

All of the hundreds of bills rushed through congress in its closing days either had been signed or rejected, White House officials announced, and the president was looking forward to a period of carefree relaxation on the new cruiser Tuscaloosa and perhaps a bit of fishing.

Man Killed, 35 Injured as Two Trains Collide

Promises More Indictments in Annenberg Case

Grand Jury Turns to New Phrases of Income Tax Probe

Chicago.—(P)—Federal prosecutors turned today to new phases of a grand jury investigation involving M. L. Annenberg, wealthy Philadelphia publisher, pending his appearance on an indictment charging evasion of income taxes.

United States District Attorney William J. Campbell said he had been advised Annenberg and three others named in indictments yesterday would surrender next week.

The government contended Annenberg owed $5,448,348 in taxes, penalties and interest on a net income of $6,246,523.01 for the five-year period 1932-36.

Son, Aids Involved

His son, Walter, and Arnold W. Kruse and Joseph Hafner were indicted on charges of aiding Annenberg in "willfully" evading taxes.

The latter two were listed as officials of the Cecilia company, top holding firm for the Annenberg enterprises.

Campbell said the grand jury had not completed its investigation; that "there will be many more Annenberg indictments. The grand jury is considering other phases of the Annenberg income tax case and will have other reports to make to the court."

The federal attorney also said a second grand jury would resume Monday its investigation to determine whether anti-monopoly and anti-racketeering statutes had been violated by Annenberg's racing news service.

Publish Turf Sheets

In addition to the Philadelphia Inquirer, Annenberg publishes various turf sheets and owns a nationwide horse race information service.

Annenberg's bond has been fixed at $100,000, that for the others $25,000. The publisher stated he "welcomed the opportunity to have the whole matter presented to a court and jury so that the public may learn the true facts."

Youth Held After Attempted Holdup

Threatened Bank Clerks With Bottle of 'Nitroglycerine'

Milwaukee.—(P)—A youth who gave his name as Russell Lloyd Barry today faced a charge of assault with intent to commit a felony, following an attempt to hold up the Marine National bank under threat of dropping a bottle of "nitroglycerine" which was only witch hazel.

Barry, 18, told District Attorney Herbert J. Steffes and Police Captain Adolph Kraemer he needed money to attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He said he was graduated last June from a Denver, Colo., high school.

Bank clerks Victor Nilson and Reginald Ferry were at work yesterday when the youth gave Nilson a note demanding money and displayed the bottle. Nilson gave the note to Ferry, who in turn scribbled a note to a customer to notify police, and the youth was captured without resistance.

Steffes and Kraemer said Barry told a story of a home broken by his mother's death in his early boyhood. He said he was born in Milwaukee, a son of Ernest Barry, an engineer now attached to the Civil Aeronautics Authority in Kansas City, and formerly of Green Bay.

He said he came to Wisconsin to visit his grandmother at Delavan lake and subsequently came here.

Passengers Shaken Up in Crash Near Denver

MANY TRAPPED

Ambulances, Fire Department are Rushed To Scene

Denver.—(P)—One man was killed and an estimated 35 persons were injured today in a collision of two passenger trains on a crossing switch in south Denver.

The man killed was tentatively identified as A. S. Mock of Pueblo, conductor of northbound Santa Fe train No. 6.

A dozen injured were taken to Denver hospitals.

The collision was between the Santa Fe's No. 1, the Denver and Rio Grande Western's No. 1.

The police department ordered five ambulances to the scene.

The emergency fire department crew equipped with acetylene torches were dispatched, apparently to cut open cars in which many passengers were reported trapped.

Popular Tourist Train

The southbound Denver and Rio Grande train was the first section of the railroad's Scenic Limited, a popular tourist train running from Denver to Salt Lake City, via Pueblo and the Royal Gorge.

W. A. Marlett, in charge of a railroad control tower near the wreck scene, said the Santa Fe car was turned over on its side and the Denver and Rio Grande's locomotive was derailed.

Witnesses reported Mock, in the wash room of an overturned car, virtually was cut in two.

The Scenic Limited had pulled out of Union station a few minutes before the crash for its run to Salt Lake City.

Locomotive Smashed

Marlett, the control tower supervisor, said the Santa Fe train, running late, had a signal to clear the cross-over switch. It was well into the cross-over when the Scenic Limited, engine crashed into the fourth car of the Santa Fe train.

Steam sputtered 100 feet into the air from the smashed Scenic Limited locomotive.

Leaders of a force of 50 police officers who rushed to the wreck expressed fear the engine might explode. The officers tried to push back a crowd of about 2,000 madding around the scene.

The northbound Santa Fe train, made up in La Junta, Colo., runs into Denver with cars from the road's crack California Limited and trains from Texas.

The Santa Fe train was reported running 15 minutes late and the Scenic Limited left the Denver Union station a few minutes behind schedule.

Negro Occupants of Shack Stripped, 2 Smeared With Paint

Cranbury, N. J.—(P)—State police were called to this little borough today to investigate what they said was a raid by a party of white men on a shack occupied by seven Negro potato pickers, all of whom were stripped, and two, including a woman, smeared with white paint.

Fifteen men came to the farm near the town limits shortly after midnight, police said, entered the shack, smashed windows and stripped all clothing from the Negroes, five of whom were then chased through nearby fields by the whites who blazed away with shotguns, aimed high.

The other two, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Trestone, both 23, who gave their address as Coleman, Ala., were forced into a car, driven seven miles and then left in a wood where the boys smeared with white paint. They said they were told to "get back down south where you belong."

1,500 Men Fight To Save Village From Forest Fire

Spokane, Wash.—(P)—Spirit Lake, Idaho, a little mill village of 900 persons, was half-encircled today by a million-dollar forest fire that roared up to the town's edge last night, only to be turned aside by the fierce wind that had been its ally.

Hundreds of fire fighters—CCC enrollees, forest service workers, townspeople and fire companies from nearby villages—formed a protective cordon around the town.

A. P. Mitchell, proprietor of a resort on the west shore of Liberty lake, said the people there were ready to flee if the fire became menacing. He said there was some slight danger the wind leading from the bay might be cut off but observed "we can always take to the boats."

The fire, which had smoldered for several days after roaring down from Mt. Spokane to blacken 75,000 acres 45 miles north of Spokane, was whipped to new life yesterday by a sudden gale.

Heil Forces Out To Break Grip of Office Holders

Goodland Discusses Problems Which Face Republicans

Milwaukee—(P)—Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland declared in a radio speech here last night that office holders, backed by a powerful civil service department, held a grip on state government which the Heil administration was determined to break.

Discussing a gradual increase in governmental costs and the budget and tax problems which face the Republicans, Goodland said the people of Wisconsin should not forget they were "not blameless for the situation that now confronts the state."

"They, by their votes, kept and continued in power for many years the officials responsible for the costly state government we have now," he said.

"Please remember that every commission, department and bureau in the state service—every official on the state payroll—all the complicated network of state government we now have—was here in Madison when the present administration took over."

System Inherited

"It was not of their creation it was inherited as the cumulative work of many previous administrations. The present costly structure, of which the taxpayers complain, is the work of over 40 years of experimentation and building."

"During all these years our state government has been constantly expanding. It has been digging in and throwing up protective screens, man by man, by a powerful civil service department. The officeholders are determined to hold their jobs and not to yield control of the government they created if they can prevent it. You can take my word for it that they constitute a powerful pressure group."

"They have given clear demonstrations of this during the present legislative session. They have been a powerful factor in opposition to reorganization and economy. I can only state that this administration, if I correctly interpret its purpose, is determined to break the grip of this machine if humanly possible. It will do so without jeopardizing any essential activity."

Claims Trend Stopped

Goodland said the Heil administration, for the first time in many years, had stopped the trend toward higher cost of government and turned backward. Essential and competent officials need have no fear but politicians are on the way out, he asserted.

Breaking up the "political machine" was one of three points the lieutenant governor listed as part of the administration program. The other two were greater efficiency and greater economy.

He said the La Follette administration made total legislative appropriations of $74,227,523, compared with $73,363,119 under Heil, the latter including $250,000 more for relief and a new appropriation of $1,000,000 to eradicate Bangs disease in dairy herds.

He credited the administration with reducing administrative costs $1,304,240 and higher educational costs $1,283,704.

The most serious factor, he said, was that charitable, pension and relief aids dropped from $7,641,418 in 1933 to $2,932,327 at the present time, while the Heil administration suffered a heavy loss in state revenues. He listed actual tax receipts of the last La Follette administration at $55,968,910, compared with budget bureau estimates of $45,217,863 for the next two years.

"This large increase in charitable aids and great drop in estimated revenue is solely responsible for the necessity of new and added taxation," he said.

Goodland declared the Heil administration had returned the state to truly representative government and that the "spectacle of two years ago, when the chief executive demanded the enactment of the kind of government he desired, has been wholly absent in the present legislature."

Plan Speedy Trial In Florida Crime

Grand Jury Will Convene Tuesday; Man Held in Orlando Jail

West Palm Beach, Fla.—(P)—Florida authorities sought today a speedy trial for Charles Jefferson, charged with murdering Ruth Frances Dunn, pretty high school girl who wanted to be a movie star.

The Palm Beach county grand jury will convene Tuesday to hear witnesses recount the lurid story of kidnapping, rape and murder told by Jefferson in a written statement made public by County Solicitor W. E. Hoebuck.

Jefferson, bogus "talent scout," confessed he enticed Miss Dunn, 17, and Jean Bolton, 19, to leave their homes with lures of movie jobs. He said he stabbed and shot Miss Dunn to death and held Miss Bolton captive for three days.

Meanwhile, Jay Meredith, 28-year old New York radio actress was quoted in the New York Daily News as saying she was the estranged wife of the one-time actor-radio announcer.

Sheriff H. W. Lawrence prepared sets of fingerprints to be mailed to officers in five states who sought to link Jefferson with unsolved sex crimes.

Jefferson remained in jail incommunicado, at Orlando, some 200 miles from the scene of the crime.

Miss Bolton, blonde night club singer, returned to her Miami home last night from a hospital.

Visibly worn, she exhibited to close friends feet that were bruised and torn from walking in the vicinity of Boca Raton with her captor and legs that bore angry bites from swamp mosquitoes.

Scout Staff Plans Dedication Of New Gardner Dam Swim Pool

Plans for the dedication of the new swimming pool at Gardner Dam Scout camp are being made by the camp staff and Valley council officers, according to C. A. Engberg, scout executive.

The dedication will be held this month before the scouts return from camp. A dedication stone has been set up near the pool which was completed several weeks ago by Ray McCarty Construction company, Kaukauna, at a cost of about $4,500. The pool was a gift of the late Mrs. Helen Sloane.

The pool is about 240 feet long and 146 feet wide and is a pear-shaped bowl fed naturally from the Wolf river. It is two feet deep at the shallow end and slopes gradually to a depth of eight feet, four inches.

The channel from the Wolf river feeds into the pool at the north end and the water is held by a dam at the south end. A drain pipe through the dam and the overflow on the dam takes away the water which returns to the river.

A 12 by 24-foot diving platform has been set in the deep area and has a modern diving board. It is built in sections so that it may be removed easily during the winter.

Ten Men Protect Virgin Timber On Menominee Reservation From The Forest's No. 1 Enemy—Fire

Shawano—If you have ever thrown a smoldering match or burning cigarette from your car on State Highway 47 or 55 on the Menominee Indian Reservation, you have imperiled the largest remaining stand of virgin timber in the Lake states area to the greatest of all timber dangers—the forest fire.

Many motorists have. Others have carelessly left campfires, or thrown away matches at drinking places. Yet an organization of only 10 men protect the timber. And there has been no severe fire in the area since 1934.

The job is a big one. There is an estimated 780 million feet of virgin timber, about a third of it high-grade hardwood, over the 10-township area that makes up the reservation. Add another quarter million feet of second-growth timber to make an even billion feet of potential logs.

Constant lookout for smoke is kept from four watch towers, 120 feet high and 20 feet, located in strategic spots on the reservation. Organization of the fire force is extremely simple, and most fires can be reached within 15 or 20 minutes.

A lookout sees smoke on the horizon, examines it with his glasses, and "shoots" it through a hairline sight on his alidade. Then he reports to the ranger station by telephone light from the top of the tower.

The alidade has a fixed base with a 360-degree circle. The tower or man simply gives the degree number. A key map in the ranger headquarters near Keshena has the same direction circles and readings and a pin with thread attached marks the direction line.

Where Threads Cross

The second lookout's direction number will make the threads cross on the map, and the point of intersection is the location of the fire. A third reading from another tower may be taken to provide a check. The towers cover the entire reservation, and are in sight of each other.

The location of the fire is then found on a large contour map, enabling the ranger on duty to see what kind of country the fire is in, and how it is easiest to get there. Then he goes to the fire.

For small blazes a pick-up truck is used, equipped with, among other things, small pumping tanks carried on the back to shoot water. For larger blazes, however, there is an ingenious pumping device on a larger truck that will drill a well with water pressure, in hard earth, in half an hour, and pump water with power from the truck motor.

A powerful, snub-nosed caterpillar is driven onto a trailer and then onto a heavy truck, and behind it the most modern type of plow. The fire-fighters use it to plow a ditch all around the fire to segregate it, then "mop up" with the water. About 400 miles of roads, including state highways, CCC gravel trails, logging roads, and some built by the WPA, spread a network throughout the reservation making any spot easily accessible.

The Indian division of the CCC, headed on the reserve by Walter Redington, maintains its headquarters at the ranger station near Keshena, and when crews are needed his organization can quickly provide them up to 150 or 200 men. In emergencies the mill force at

State Prison Cashier Dies in Front of Home

Wausau—(P)—Jerry Dayton, 39, cashier at Wisconsin state prison for the past 15 years, died unexpectedly in front of his home yesterday. He returned from work. He was native of Randolph, Wis.

at Keshena and Neopit respectively. A forest guard, Alex Wapoose, in charge at South Branch. Then are two other forest guards, and the four towermen complete the organization.

A federal forest protection borders the reservation around much of its boundary, and towers at Boulder to the north, and near Bowler to the southwest, cooperate with the Menominee organization, which in turn helps them.

Live In Cottages

Towermen, one for each location, live in cottages at the foot of their stations, their work varying with the weather. In dry weather they may be expected to stay on the lookout until nearly dark, but this is compensated in rainy weather when they get time off.

Most of them while away the long hours when not peering through field glasses, with reading, but one of them, Martin Maskewitz, at the Kinepaway tower, is a violin-maker in his spare time.

Situated as it is in a solid block of timber, the Dutchman tower provides a breath-taking view, with mile after mile of gently-rolling land covered with large trees, and only occasionally a clearing where one farmer has laboriously felled trees to grow his products. From the top it is possible to see the water tower in the city of Shawano—about 24 miles cross-country. Although visitors are allowed and the tower is only a short distance off Highway 47, only 12 names have been registered in the book since July first.

Head of the force on the reservation is Richard Delaney, the forest supervisor. Two junior rangers, James Frechette and James Martin, have charge of the stations.

Goldins Lose to Combined Locks

Run in Last Inning Gives Victory to Paper Company Team

Kaukauna — A last inning run gave the Combined Locks Paper company softball team a 4 to 3 victory over the Goldins Metals of the city league on the library diamond last night. Three hundred persons saw the game.

Hammen pitched for the winners and spaced the Goldins hits well. Toby Kuffe's hit to center sent two runs across for the Kaukauna team in the fifth inning, the first having come in the second. With the score tied at 3-all Lamers doubled over third to score the winning run from second.

Bill Alker was on the mound for the Goldins. He pitched a good game, but poor infield support allowed the first three enemy runs to score. Others who showed for the Metals were Abe Goldin, Jack Burton, Cliff Kemp, Glen Miller, Vic Gerhart, Ralph Johnson and Jack Verbeten.

Koehne Wins Senior Tennis Championship

Kaukauna — Art Koehne won the senior division tennis tournament yesterday, taking an easy victory in straight sets from W. Dowling. The scores were 6-1, 6-1 and 6-3.

Kaukauna — Sealed bids will be received by the utilities commission, up to 5 o'clock August 25, for approximately 2,000 barrels of Portland cement. The above amount is not guaranteed, and only the actual amount ordered will be paid for. The cement will be used in the construction of the hydroelectric project.

75 Legionnaires To Attend Parley

Kaukauna Sending Large Delegation to Meeting at Oshkosh

Kaukauna — Seventy-five Kaukauna Legionnaires will invade Oshkosh today to represent Post No. 41 at the annual state Legion convention. The 40 and 8 group will march in the parade with similar groups from other cities tonight, with the big procession slated for Monday. Official delegates to convention sessions are Lester J. Brenzel, Ed Haas, George Schubring and Walter Lucht.

The 40 and 8 members will leave in their engine and box car, trailing behind the old city fire and curfew bell, which the members have fixed up for the parade. The bell, silent for 17 years, has been repaired this summer by the group, and will make as much noise as anything in the parade.

The bell was placed in the tower of the old city hall in 1897, when Joseph McCarty was mayor, according to the inscription on it. It was used until the opening of the municipal building in 1923. The old city hall is now the American Legion hall. The bell remained there until five years ago, when it was taken down and stored. It weighs 1,360 pounds.

Paul Gerrits to Visit in Kaukauna

Skating Comedian Is Returning for Visit With Brother

Kaukauna — Paul Gerrits, Wrightstown youth who worked here for a time for Thilman Pulp and Paper company, and has now finished six months at Earl Carroll's club in Hollywood as a roller skating comedian, is due in Kaukauna today to visit his brother, Felix, W. Division street.

Learning to skate in the old Wrightstown pavilion, Gerrits broke into vaudeville in the twenties at Seattle, Washington, in an act called the Crystal Trio. In 1931 this combination broke up and he plunged out for himself, adding a line of comedy patter to his skating. In 1936 he hit the night club circuit in New York, and played for 26 weeks at the St. Regis hotel. He went to London during the coronation, and made television broadcasts, besides playing America's leading showhouses in New York, Chicago and Hollywood. After visiting here he will open in Washington, D. C.

Gerrits' hobby is flying model airplanes. He is bringing one here from California, and has written he intends to get off some good flights while home. The gas model plane is very popular in the west.

Two minor traffic accidents were reported in the city yesterday afternoon. Cars driven by Harry Coppens, 119 E. College avenue, and Peter Meyer, 331 W. Washington street, collided at 12:55. Coppens was going east on College avenue and Meyer west on the avenue and making a turn when the collision occurred. It was reported to police. Cars driven by James Brown, 500 S. Story street, and John Sternhagen, 320 S. Memorial drive, collided about 3 o'clock. Brown was going west on Washington street and was making a turn and Sternhagen was going south on Walnut street when the accident occurred, police said.

Forty-five states in 1938 reduced highway deaths in terms of mileage driven.

FEDERAL MEN TEST TRUCK SCALES WITH NEW EQUIPMENT

The city truck scales on Walnut street and those at several coal and wood firms in Appleton were tested Friday by the huge testing truck shown above. The truck is the property of the bureau of standards of the United States Department of Commerce and is manned by C. F. Horton and R. W. Crouch, Jr., of Washington, D. C. The truck is touring the nation mainly to demonstrate the use of proper testing equipment for 20-ton scales, Horton said. The truck and 15 weights of 1,900 pounds each weighs 40,000 pounds on the scale. The crane on the truck is to handle the 1,000-pound weights. Smaller weights are used to test discrepancies in the scale. The truck will be in the state about five weeks and left for New London from Appleton. In the picture, left to right, are Lawrence Reinke, a city employee; Joseph H. Hodgins, city sealer of weights and measures; Horton, on the truck and George D. Gilman, a state scale tester. When pupils of St. Mary Parochial school return to their classes in September they will move into a remodeled building, with improved lighting and new classroom seats.

Workmen are expected to complete the remodeling in time for the opening of school in early September and now are installing window stripping and painting the interior.

New seats throughout, about $50 of them, and new desks for the teachers are expected within a week and will be installed as soon as the new flooring is laid. Work on the floors is expected to start next week. A composition floor in 12-inch squares will be laid throughout the building.

A lunch and play room has been built in the basement to accommodate youngsters who do not go home for dinner and an office has been built for the sister superior at the rear of the school.

The boiler room was fireproofed with steel lath and cement plaster and a fire door is being installed where the room connects to the rest of the building. The school was entirely re-wired and six new lighting fixtures in each room will replace the obsolete string lights. New slate blackboards have been installed.

The masons, carpenters and plumbers have completed their work. Electrical wiring has been finished except for hanging the new fixtures.

Chilton Youth Honored at Camp

Franklin G. Bowe Named Best Instructed Sentinel at Ft. Snelling

Chilton—A Chilton youth, Franklin G. Bowe, stationed at Fort Snelling, Minn., was selected as the best instructed sentinel at the camp. Bowe is a member of a tank company.

The Ladies auxiliary, No. 6, met at the city hall on Thursday afternoon. The following were on the serving committee: Mildred Mahlkoff, Emma Loewe, Ida Duchow, Mary Glander and Esther Matthes.

The Women's Missionary society of the Ebenezer Reformed church met with Miss Elizabeth Einolf this week.

Miss Hazel Schatz is spending a week's vacation with her aunt, Mrs. D. W. Kussinger in Milwaukee. Miss Jane Peik, Madison, is spending her vacation at the Dr. J. W. Goggins home.

John H. Kohler, who was successful in dramatics while in high school, is the only local talent to appear with the players.

Several farmers from Calumet county together with A. L. McMahon, county agent, and Roy E. Elde, agricultural instructor of Chilton High school, went to Madison Thursday where they visited the experimental plum and apple orchard at the University of Wisconsin.

Among those who made the trip were Joseph Kolbe, John Goess, Carl Schmidt, Edgar Gasch, Ben Brickheimer, Carl Oberthur and F. F. Schlosser, principal of the Chilton high school.

As Ernie Pyle Sees America

Cameron, Ariz. (AP)—Well folks, heave a sandy sigh of relief. Today winds up the Navajo desert trip, I swear and promise, and it shan't be mentioned again. At least not for a day or two.

Maybe I've made too much of a to-do over this trip. I don't know. Anybody who wants to take a jaunt through that country. There's nothing very difficult about it.

But we'll leave for it so hard, I suppose, because so few people actually do go through. It'll be a long time before that desert out there is spoiled, as we think of any spot being spoiled when it becomes a mecca for tourists.

It is Indian reservation, and the government has no notion of putting in hard roads for sight-seers. And 99 tourists out of 100, when they see plain old dirt road on the map, go elsewhere. Yet, despite my selfishness over this country, I wish you could see it.

You'll find accommodations superb. You'll have coal oil lamps and a bowl and pitcher in many places, but where do you think you'll take a jaunt through that country. There's nothing very difficult about it.

You'll eat right at the table with the folks who spend the night with you, and you'll discover human beings again, more than likely. You'll find yourself sleeping like a log and eating like a horse. And the grub they serve and the way they pile it on is second only to the hearty feeding you get in Alaska.

Safe If Prepared
It's perfectly safe for anybody to go through that country, if he is prepared. It is not unusual for women to drive through alone. As one trader out there said, "It seems like a couple of women are often more capable of handling themselves than we men are."

And if you're a woman and want to keep on my good side, don't drive through the Navajo deserts in shorts and halter.

Now, on moral grounds I haven't the slightest objections if you go through with nothing on. But the sight of a woman in milk-white skin out there in the sand under that hot sun in that big, hot country, is just simply incongruous and bad taste, that's all. Don't do it. Wear slacks; you'll be more comfortable.

If you want, you can drive clear through there in two days. If you do, you might as well stay home. The only way to feel the country is to pause in it; sit on a rock and don't worry about getting up; just get you if you don't watch out.

Mr. Schaffer and I have been close friends for a long time. It was sort of startling to see what this country did to us both as we fell deeper and deeper into its spirit. We somehow felt that we belonged out there, and nowhere else could be as satisfying.

And when we came back into so-called civilization, we were so mad we could have bitten all the tourists in two. Pavement never felt so unwelcome. You'd think that after nearly a thousand miles of rough, dusty road, we could welcome pavement with a great sigh of relief. But it was, in fact, just the opposite.

A few miles from Tuba City, we could see black smoke coming out of a big chimney. We were at that time pretending we were Indians. My friend pointed and said, "Ugh! White man smoke. Me no like Ugh!"

And when we drew up at the nice lodge and coffee shop here in Cameron (and Cameron, itself, is just a cross-roads) and saw all the cars with various state licenses, and all the smooth-road tourists in their fancy clothes, we were actually so smug and contemptuous that we could have been shot for our thoughts.

Sobering up to ourselves we seemed super-men in our overalls and our 1,000 miles of recent past. We knew and felt things these sissies couldn't understand. The desert'll get you if you don't watch out.

GIVING AWAY GREAT SECRETS

After the World war started in 1914 the book entitled "Germany and the Next War," written by General von Bernhardi of the German general staff, was printed in English and obtained a wide sale in this country.

While the General's book may have done the Allies harm in Germany nothing could have done them more good in America. For it was written in the most approved Prussian Junker manner. It was based upon the assumption that war is inevitable and that only those were fit to survive who could plan the attack and select the day with full understanding of conditions elsewhere. Its seemingly cold and heartless consideration of the subject of war left the American reader hot and angry. He said to himself that any nation which constructed its course upon such a ruthless policy must go down into the dust. It helped to prepare his mind for President Wilson's war message and the resolution of congress that declared ourselves in armed conflict with the Reich.

But this time it is an Englishman who has tipped over the beans, one Rogerson, who has printed a book entitled "Propaganda in the Next War" and in which just as coldly and bloodlessly is considered the steps that England will take to secure again American help. The author declares:

"We shall require to do much propaganda to keep the United States benevolently neutral. To persuade her to take our part will be much more difficult. It will need a definite threat to America, a threat, moreover, which will have to be brought home by propaganda to every citizen, before the Republic will again take arms in an external quarrel."

"Fortunately, with America, our propaganda is in fine ground. We can be entirely sincere, as our main plank will be the old democratic one."

Then the author goes on to detail how different bloods and religions will be lined up in this country and just the sort of Englishman who should be sent over to handle the work.

Probably von Bernhardi disgusted the Prussian Junkers, not with the sentiments he espoused but because he was foolish enough to print them. And the British authorities are certainly not pleased with Rogerson's book, not because of the advice and the methods he details but because they have been printed where Americans can read them.

PLAINERS SIGNALS NEEDED

There should be more collaboration between the planners.

Here is Senator LaFollette belittling President Roosevelt's claim that the failure to pass his unneutral Neutrality Act would make countless millions mourn. And here is Charles Michelson, high paid head of the Democratic publicity bureau in his latest press dispatch, admitting that the Hatch bill is a Republican victory in spite of Mr. Roosevelt's statement that he really wanted it all the time, that it is a mighty "step in the right direction," although some of the trivialities about it annoyed him such as the tating on the pantaloons.

We note that Field Marshal Jim Farley is over in Poland, of all places for a postmaster general to go at this particular time. But we can feel much more secure about that trip to Warsaw than we would if the Great Humanitarian had been given all the authority he asked of congress. As it is he may be using Gentleman Jim to feel out the Polish authorities for the purpose of ascertaining whether another message to Hitler might not be in order or perhaps a branch of that Chicago speech idea when he was going to do some quarantining.

We should feel nothing but commiseration for the man who passes the tavern with hungry eyes and finally surrenders to enter the door because he cannot resist the lure of liquor. And the same sort of feeling should persist in regard to those gentlemen in politics, let us call them William Jennings Bryans so as not to be personal with the living, men to whom the strains of a welcoming band or the applause of supporters is like meat and milk and the calcium lights look like home. But we simply must have more planning among the planners. Just now they are setting poor examples for the unwashed hoi polloi.

MORE SKILLED MEN ON THE STREET

Newspapers continue to suspend, close plants, and quit.

Buffalo, with a population of 600,000, has joined Milwaukee and other cities of similar population. Its Times which has been running 60 years has crawled away into a sepulchre. About 350 skilled men are on the street.

It is a remarkable thing in American history to see cities of anywhere from 400 to 700 thousand people unable to support two evening dailies. Before the introduction of the New Deal and its financial, taxation and business policies; these cities always supported two and generally three or four such papers.

The most bitter part of this pill is that the papers that have cracked under the load regarded themselves as liberal, and in most instances started out supporting the New Deal.

The Roosevelt policies promised an elixir of life to the Little Fellows. If it hasn't fed them cyanide which kills instantly it may have been mercury with which it has been dosing them for death has been certain although the struggle to keep the heart beating was more prolonged.

We rather think the story of the newspapers throughout the country—and it is practically the same from Boston to Seattle as it is from Rochester to Dallas—is typical of the hardship loaded upon the Little Fellows everywhere.

For little fellows haven't big bank accounts. And increased exactions, taxes, excises, payroll scrapings and all the other masquerades employed by the Planners have hurt and hurt hard.

The money that was needed to improve or sustain their papers went to the government. The papers therefore went to the ash heap.

Here we have as splendid an example as can ever be put on the table concerning those fellows "whose purposes are good" but whose understanding and experience are a washout.

No question at all that they expected to help the Little Fellows. At any rate they put their arms around their necks. And choked them to death.

A KENTUCKY DISCOVERY

Senator Logan of Kentucky read into the Congressional Record a strange and surprising statement written by one Noel Gaines, a citizen of Frankfort in that state, who wishes to spread the recently discovered truth that the sun is a great source of light but does not pass out any heat.

We make no objection to the printing of this statement at government expense or of placing it alongside with some other choice bits of human erudition in the Congressional Record. Mr. Gaines is greatly to be commended for his courage, his sagacity and the marvelous scholastic intuition he has evidenced.

He did not undertake to dissolve our foolish ideas about the sun lightly or carelessly. He admits that a great number of seemingly sane astronomers for a great many centuries have commented upon the sun's heat. Nevertheless he lays down the fiat: "The sun is not a body of heat."

The sage adds that "all heat in our earth's atmosphere is generated right here in the atmosphere like heat is generated right here in fires and human bodies."

We would like to inquire from the resident of the state enriched by $50,000,000 just before Senator Barkley's election where the deuce the heat came from that blistered arms and backs that were uncovered to the sun. It is an awful question to risk, we know, because Mr. Gaines supports his declaration by telling us there are "abundant facts" to uphold him.

Nor should we forget to marvel at this additional example of the public advantages that accrue through the generations by strewing around teachings concerning independent thinking even when the thoughts discovered are too heavy for the discoverer.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

REMEMBERING

(Patricia Ann)

Her hands had played a gentle little tune Upon Life's minor keys. Although she planned that she would master soon The keyboard harmonies, The Master had another plan for her, And now, when morning comes, The house is quiet. No small fingers stir, No childish small voice hums.

Sometimes the wind that scampers in the grass Takes her confiding form. From the blue gentian, flowering as we pass, Her eyes look, with the charm Of days that are no more. Her young voice hides In a bird's pulsing throat, And every summer melody confides Her sweet immortal note.

Her mother's thoughts dwell with her where she runs In Heaven's dewy lanes. Her father's eyes strain to her past the suns Of the celestial plains. God keeps her safe from any lonely hours, And smiles upon her there, For she is one of the most precious flowers That make His garden fair.

Although the last of the triumvirate which established the Mayo clinic has just died, the family name will long endure in the annals of American surgery. Dr. William J. Mayo and Dr. Charles H. Mayo began relinquishing their active surgical careers several years ago, but maintained close personal contacts with the clinic at Rochester, which began under the tutelage of their father, Dr. William W. Mayo. It used to be said of the brothers that Dr.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—They say Broadway is a street without a heart. They say Broadway curries when you're up and kicks you when you're down. It is a libel and a lie.

Consider Joe Sullivan. He plays piano in Bob Crosby's orchestra—plays a very hot piano. Joe's been sick. Three years ago in Chicago he slipped on the ice in front of the Blackhawk Cafe where the band was playing. He went to a hospital to make sure the hurt wasn't serious. The doctor examined him. "Your shoulder's all right," was his diagnosis, "but there is something else. You have tuberculosis!"

You know how musicians are. They don't have a lot of money. They haven't bankrolls that will see them through years of hospitalization. It looked like finale for Joe Sullivan. But Joe and the boys played a benefit for Joe. It netted $2,800. Bob's brother, Bing, sang a benefit, adding $3,500 more. With this money Joe Sullivan went west and entered a sanitarium. The band went its way, another pianist at the keyboard. Bob said to Sullivan: "Get well, and when the doctor says you're O.K., the job will be waiting."

To himself Sullivan said: "Applesauce, I'll never be well again. Even if I recover, there are other piano players—probably better piano players. People forget."

The band went onward and upward, swinging its way up among the nation's name bands. A few weeks ago the boys came east, playing a series of one night stands preparatory to opening in New York this fall. In the meantime Joe Sullivan, by grace of the money raised by the two Crosby benefits—benefits in which the talent was almost entirely "heartless" Broadway folk—had regained his health. The last tuberculosis germ had been whipped. He wrote Bob Crosby a letter of thanks. His answer was a telegram: "Cater first plane east. Your place at the piano is waiting."

I know this isn't much of an item. The only brief I hold for it is that it shows there is plenty of wholesome heart in Heartless Town; and in all the business of living there will never be anything more beautiful than Friends who Remember.

Where Money Goes

When I first took up the disgusting habit of smoking cigarettes, they cost 10 cents a package. The same cigarettes today cost 17 cents. Or take milk. I remember when it used to come to us, warm from the cow, at a nickel a quart. Today it's 15 cents, and I'll lay a small wager that it isn't as creamy as the liquid we used to get for one-third that price.

I wonder what's happened in those years—years we so proudly assert have been progressive—to hike the cost of things so tremendously. There is no shortage of tobacco or cows. There are still plenty of all the things people need for their contentment and well being. Can it be that something has happened to that old axiom of supply-and-demand? Or have we in two decades of frantic living become enmeshed in a too intricate economic system? And how long can people continue to meet costs that rise penny by penny?

I am so stupid about such matters. I see people shuffling through life uncomplainingly, fretting mostly about trifles and blind to the persisting bites of higher costs of living. It seems as though there ought to be some way, some system of economics, that would aim at making the business of living less complicated; that would, in truth, contribute toward individual happiness instead of individual hardship. The social sciences, the sciences of personal peace and contentment are all around, yet everywhere there are scars of suffering, struggle and unhappiness.

Brooklyn's Daffiness Boy

It would be a jolly joke if the Brooklyn baseball club should through some strange providence win the National League pennant this year, but it would be a vindication of a fine ideal of business, too. The Brooklyn Dodgers have been a laughing stock of sports a long time. They called them the Daffy Dodgers. This year, however, with Larry McPhail as business manager, a new note has been struck. McPhail has proceeded on the theory that if you do some extra nice things for the customers, the customers will do extra nice by you. He has inaugurated a system of giving the fans their money's worth. He has spent money in improving the ball park and the club itself. A less sagacious management might have turned the money into dividends for stockholders. As a consequence, the Brooklyn ball club today, after years of being cuffed around, is one of the best sporting investments in New York.

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Aug. 15, 1914

Appleton Elks decided to install bowling alleys at a meeting the previous evening. The alleys were to be located in the south side of the basement.

Charles Reitzner had received an order from a firm which was to exhibit at the world's fair in San Francisco for some of his goose breasts and pickles.

Italy had refused to allow Austrian troops to pass through her territory and war between the two powers was imminent. It was officially announced that a union had been formed between the French and Belgian armies, an exchange of officers having been effected in order that the two armies could work together. A battle as famous in history as the one that marked the downfall of Napoleon was anticipated at Waterloo.

30 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Aug. 10, 1909

Construction of the new Lawrence college gymnasium was nearing completion. The swimming pool was being tiled, the interior painted and the lawn graded.

The resignation of J. Raymond Walsh, assistant principal of Appleton High school, was announced at the meeting of the board of education at Lincoln school Friday evening. Werner Witte had been selected to fill the vacancy.

Charles performed all surgical operations from the throat up. Dr. Will, all from the throat down. This was not accurate. Dr. Will did a specialty of abdominal operations. Dr. Charles looked generally after other kinds, but either could, and often did, take over the work of his brother with satisfaction to himself and the patients. They believed that right diagnosis and technical excellence were the foundation stones of all good surgery and spared themselves neither labor nor expense in striving for both.

Older by four years, Dr. Will survived his brother by two months. Dr. Charles died of pneumonia in Chicago on May 27. At that time Dr. Will was recovering from the first effects of an abdominal operation currently reported to have been for a gastric ulcer, a form of surgery at which he himself was singularly expert. His brother's death affected him deeply. That this depression may have contributed to his failure properly to rally is possible, but Dr. Will was entering upon the seventy-ninth year of his life, an age at which no recondite explanation is necessary for inability to rally from a major surgical operation. As was true of his brother, he leaves an honorable record of a useful life.—New York Sun.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The last-minute legislative jam in the senate stopped the war and navy departments from extending our in a spherical defense network down along the coasts of South America. Legislation was proposed to let Latin American republics buy our most modern air and coast defense weapons direct from the army and navy. The law already permits them to buy munitions here from private concerns. But private U. S. concerns don't manufacture heavy-caliber coast defense weapons nor the speed-firing and sighting devices for anti-aircraft operation.

The only place the Latin American countries have been able to buy such equipment is in Europe. They are buying it extensively. Prices are much lower than for American stuff. Only recently Brazil placed an order for $60,000,000 worth of German artillery and other war material. Germany took cotton, coffee and other raw products in exchange.

Brazil is building three destroyers from American steel, but now that they are about finished, she can't buy U. S. guns for them although the U. S. navy has large stocks.

The state department doesn't like the idea of European nations, notably Germany and Italy, supplying South American nations. The department thinks it is likely to win the Latin Americans away from the U. S. only.

Ammunition Must Fit
The army and navy have an equal interest in the thing. In case of a world war, the U. S. and the other American republics likely would be shoulder to shoulder in defense of this hemisphere. If the republics in the south were equipped with European weapons they could buy no fresh supplies of ammunition during the war. And nothing made by the U. S. would fit.

The army and navy hoped—and expected—that orders for anti-aircraft and coast defense weapons would come from a number of South American nations.

Although the bill permitted them also to buy battleships or smaller craft, the navy people don't expect they will. The navy does not look for much hemispherical defense from the Latin American navies. One modern battleship and a few heavy cruisers could put all the South American navies to rout.

But of special importance to the navy are bases and safe harbors along the American coast. In a war these bases would be of tremendous importance. Rio de Janeiro, for instance, would need anti-aircraft weapons to shoot away raiding bombers. It would need coast defense weapons to protect the docks and war stores for the fighting forces.

Along six American republics have indicated they would like U. S. weapons. Sumner Welles, under-secretary of state, has told house and senate foreign relations committees that all the Latin American nations approve the legislation.

The Other Side
The house passed the bill late in the session but opposition in the senate foreign relations committee held up the legislation until the final hours of the session. By the time it was released from the committee, it was too late. Four Republican members, Borah of Idaho, Johnson of California, White of Maine and Vandenberg of Michigan, said the bill would do far more harm than good.

Instead of promoting hemispheric good feeling, they said, it would breed discord and rivalry in Latin America. If the U. S. agreed to build a ship or two for one South American country, they said, all others would get panicky. After all, the balance of power in South America is almost as delicate as in Europe.

Further, they argued, there is a genuine dislike in America for putting the U. S. in the munitions business.

"The U. S. shouldn't be huckstering military weapons and battleships to our neighbors to the south," said Johnson.

The army, navy and state departments answered that the countries can already buy whatever they wish abroad, so discord would not result just because they bought American.

The thing will come up again next session and probably will skid through like a wet duck.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

I guess the whole country drank a toast to Fred Snite, Jr., in his fourth year in an "iron lung" and to his bride, Teresa Larkin. It sure is a pleasure to turn away from the dickerings and bellowings of the rest of the world and look into the face of these two young specimens of heroism, sacrifice, faith and devotion.

The picture of the week wasn't from Berlin, Danzig, Tokio, London or Paris. It was from River Forest, Illinois. There wasn't a diplomat, a war lord, a bombing plane or a map in it, just a lovely, radiant young woman in her white chiffon wedding dress standing beside a stricken, helpless, but smiling kid in his "iron lung." There was something so brave and spiritual about it all, and so little of that gets into the news these times.

A devoted woman and a gallant man—there's no beating that combination.

Teresa met Fred back in their school days and his terrible illness only brought them closer. Their marriage is a great example for thousands of young couples who are postponing getting hitched on account of some trivialities that don't amount to a hill of beans.

EVERYTHING EXCEPT THE ONE HE PROMISED TO CATCH

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Some persons in sympathy with Governor Heil's administration policy are beginning to think that his Republican colleagues in the legislature are taking his suggestions too literally.

Some time ago the executive committee of the legislature in joint session assembled that "I was not elected to be a dictator; you were not elected to be rubber stamps."

That statement, however, did not prevent Mr. Heil from designating the bills in the legislative hopper which he particularly wanted approved or killed.

And since that time the legislature has acted contrary to his wishes on several important matters.

There was the question of reducing the vacations of state employees. No one who heard Heil discuss his economy plans before the legislature three weeks ago can doubt that he meant what he said when he proposed two weeks of vacation instead of three. Yet the assembly voted down a bill which would have made that suggestion law.

Then there was the appropriation for the farm and home credit administration. The work of that agency is a little vague in many minds, its reports on activities sometimes unimpressive. Governor Heil probed around a bit during budget hearings, decided it could be dispensed with. But a Democrat introduced a bill to keep it alive, and it passed the assembly, and then the senate, despite all that the governor could do.

There is also the matter of the now famous "dictator bill."

Desiring to keep his finger in closer touch with the pulse of the state government, Heil proposed to make himself the final arbiter of all state hiring, firing, and buying. In other words Heil was to boss state spending.

Here his own leaders deserted him. Under the leadership of Frank Graess of Sturgeon Bay, the assembly adopted a substitute plan which will bring six or eight other people into the picture to decide with Heil whether certain purchases or employees are justified. Needless to say that was a disappointment to the executive after he had specifically asked for support of his own plan in a special message to the lawmakers.

Even more damaging to Heil's reputation as the leader of the Republican administration majority was the defeat of the bill proposing to abolish the state planning board.

The aggregate of Heil's reversals is such that soon observers will begin to wonder whether something not yet known has occurred to strain the relations with the Republican in the executive office and the Republicans in the legislative chambers.

ODDS AND ENDS
As the time approaches for the governor to begin appointing men to the new positions in the reorganized state departments, the air is thick with rumors and gossip. According to all reports, however, honeymoon in Fred's trailer and they'll be happier than a lot of new-laid who go by plane, private pullman or ocean liner, and I have a hunch Fred is going to get well.

The Shrine of Lourdes has helped him a lot and the devotion of a fine wife will be a great aid, too. All the luck in the world to Fred and Teresa.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

MARRIAGE QUESTION

My girl, complains a young man, is beyond my reach. She earns $24 a week and dresses like a movie queen. The other evening I took her and her mother out. Mother was going to a two-bit show, but Jean was strong for a $2 show and supper afterward. The evening set me back over twelve dollars which made a sad hole in my $40 salary. I'm scared to take the chance of marrying.

So that's the way it is, eh? Another youth recently pointed out that the hurdle that frightened him was the expenditure of $300 for an engagement ring, one with a diamond the girl would not be ashamed to compare with such tokens sported by her friends.

Probably there are a good many not too timid young men, or men who were young not many years ago, courting women no longer so very young, but evading any talk of a definite marriage date because they fear they will be unable to support the girl in the style to which she has been accustomed.

Both Jean and the girl who gives her fiancé the impression that nothing less than a $300 ring will sound pretty foolish. In these days of scarcity of good husbands, three hundred bucks might make all the difference between a happy marriage and years of worry and discontent.

Scientists say the sexes are approaching each other, meaning that the male is becoming more effeminate and the female more aggressive, under the influence of civilization. Women today unquestionably do a good deal more working than women did a generation ago.

When the female takes the active role and the male the passive the marriage question changes. There may be some justification for the canny youth to ask the prospective bride to furnish a health certificate to complement his own.

Now that one state after another is setting up laws requiring some sort of medical test for one or more communicable diseases before issuing license to marry, perhaps the legal requirements will answer that question. In the old era when men did the wooing, discovered, pursued and won or lost the object of their affections, both chivalry and the double standard of morals which then ruled, obviated asking the girl to furnish a medical certificate of her freedom from disease or her fitness to marry. In that age of innocence a man would hardly consider marrying a woman if he had any faint doubts of her freedom from disease or her fitness for marriage. Now with the double standard gone all to take its place, it begins to seem reasonable for the prospective bride to produce a health certificate too.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Chronic Rhinitis and Sinusitis
Many thanks for your instructions.

There is more than rumor to the talk that Heil may appoint William J. Conway, veteran Democratic member of the tax commission, to the directorship of the new one man body created by the legislature.

Observers recollect that Conway has been silent all during the reorganization process, that he made no protest whatever, although the reorganization bill ostensibly meant the loss of the job he loves so dearly.

A Republican who put the question of Conway's prospects to Heil directly the other day reports that he is the leading candidate for the highly important job at present.

Buchholz District Asks City to Sign Service Contract

Council on Record Denying Service to Outlying Communities

The Buchholz Sanitary district, town of Harrison, today accepted the city's rates for the use of Appleton's sewerage and disposal facilities and asked the city to sign the contract.

City officers however, can't sign the contract because the city council is on record denying sewerage service to outlying communities "until all industrial connections in Appleton have been completed."

Harry P. Hoeftel, city attorney said this morning, city officers will have to reverse their decision before officers may sign the contract. The city originally refused to take sewage from the Buchholz district contending that it will be impossible to determine whether the treatment plant's capacity is sufficient to permit connections with outlying districts until all industrial connections are made.

Refused to Pay
The two governmental bodies have been at swords points ever since the city set the rates and the district refused to pay them and threatened to go to the public service commission to seek a reduction.

The city retaliated with a letter refusing to grant service to the district and when the WPA office at Green Bay heard about the controversy, Mark Muth, WPA district head, wrote to Thomas Heiss, secretary of the district, and told him that an agreement must be reached or the WPA sewer project in the district would be discontinued.

The rates set by the board of public works are $12 for residences not housing more than two families; $18 for business places classified as those selling at retail and $28 for taverns. Rates for apartment houses and industrial plants were left open until such time as rates for those classifications are needed.

Feminists Honor Frances Willard

Gather at Former Farm Home of Famous Temperance Worker

Janesville — Delegates from six states gathered at the Frances E. Willard memorial near here today to honor the famous feminist in her 100th anniversary year.

Ceremonies were scheduled this afternoon at the frame school built by her father in 1853 in which Miss Willard studied and later taught. Miss Willard, born Sept. 28, 1839, in Churchville, N. Y., spent much of her life at "Forest Homes," a large farm on the Rock river near here. She died in 1898.

The school site, adjoining the farm, was purchased a few years ago by the Rock county Women's Christian Temperance Union as a memorial, and the school with one and a half acres of woodland now comprises a unit for the youth hostel movement.

Miss Willard is revered for her indefatigable work for women's rights, for temperance, for better working conditions and wages for labor, and for broader educational facilities to all.

Represented in the pilgrimage were W.C.T.U. and D.A.R. members from Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Another celebration is planned for her birthday, Sept. 28, when W.C.T.U. members who will be in convention in Rochester, N. Y., will make a pilgrimage to her birthplace at Churchville.

The 40 et 8 unit started the first official business session of the convention this morning with routine reports and recommendations. At the Athearn hotel, Mrs. Harold W. HUGE SHOVEL MIRED IN CLAY 12 HOURS

It took workmen of the William Lathers Construction company, Madison, about 12 hours to pull a 2-yard shovel which weighs 50 tons from a clay hole on the Superhighway 41 grading project west of Appleton this week. The shovel became mired as it was being moved to the borrow pit late Wednesday afternoon. Seven caterpillar tractors with a total of 650 horsepower were used in releasing the huge piece of equipment. Workmen were on the job until midnight Wednesday and the machine was left cabled to the tractors as an anchor until 5 o'clock Thursday morning. Workmen were successful in getting the machine back on firm ground about 10 o'clock in the morning. The Post-Crescent photographer was on hand in the morning and took the above pictures during the various steps in moving the shovel which was mired to its cab at one end. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Samuel Foman, 16, who makes his home with his aunt, Miss Marie Sherman, 409 S. Walnut street, has returned from Sturgeon Bay with a tale of being adrift on Lake Michigan Wednesday and of being rescued by coast guardsmen.

The youth and a companion, Harry Martens, Kenilworth, Ill., were on the lake in a rowboat when one of the oars broke. Their motorless boat was shipping water rapidly while being blown out by a strong west wind when the coast guardsmen, under the direction of Leon Schram, went to their aid.

Nearly Third of Route 41 Grading Job Is Completed

Sixty-Five Men are Employed in Two Shifts On Connecting Link

Grading of the final link of Superhighway 41 west of Appleton is 30 to 35 per cent completed by the William Lathers Construction company, Madison, according to Webb Chapman, state resident engineer. Sixty-five men are employed on the project and work in two shifts. Work was started at the east end of the link at Highway 47 and is proceeding westward. Trucks still are hauling fill for the grade at the east overhead. There are two overheads on the route.

Among the equipment being used on the project are a 2-yard shovel, seven caterpillar tractors, nine trucks and three 12-yard scrapers. While being moved to the borrow pit west of the east overhead late Wednesday afternoon, the 50-ton shovel became mired in clay in a low spot. It took seven caterpillar tractors with a total of about 650 horsepower to pull the huge piece of equipment from the hole.

Workmen were on the job until mid-night Wednesday, resumed work at 5 o'clock the next morning and finally got the machine out about noon Thursday. During the early morning hours, heavy cables from the machine to the tractors acting as an anchor kept the shovel from working deeper into the clay.

Firm Seeks Hydro Plant at Oconto; Oral Hearing Set

Wisconsin Michigan Power Company Opposed By Two Buyers

The Wisconsin public service commission has set Aug. 18 as the date for oral arguments in the application of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company for the purchase of the Union Falls dam and hydro plant of the Oconto River Power company at Oconto Falls.

Opposition has been registered by the Oconto county rural electric cooperative, which has been granted REA funds to purchase the plant, and the Oconto Falls city government, which also has expressed an interest in purchasing the plant. Both presently are customers of the Oconto River Power company and are served by the Union Falls station.

The commission yesterday granted authority to the Wisconsin Michigan Power firm to spend $107,000 for increasing the capacity of its sub-station on the Waverly Beach road.

According to information filed with the commission, the utility which operates in northeastern Wisconsin will add 10,000 kilowatts to the capacity of the station and make other improvements in its equipment necessitated by an increased load and anticipated further increases in business in the future.

The company plans to rebuild transformers acquired by recent purchase and to install them parallel with the existing substation in order to make it possible to draw more power from the 132,000 volt Milwaukee-Twin Falls transmission line.

The sum of $21,000 will be used to rebuild the transformers. In addition the company wants to install one 132 kilovolt and five 33 kilovolt circuit breakers, necessary auxiliary apparatus, and the supporting structures. It also wants to provide an additional line between the sub-station and the Appleton generating plant, in order to relieve the overload at the station at present, it informed the commission.

Boy, 11, Sees 'Fire,' Summons Department

An 11-year-old Appleton boy called out the fire department shortly before noon today to put out a fire at the Superior street dump. Firemen answering the alarm could find no trace, but the boy stuck to his story even when questioned by police. Firemen and police were convinced that the boy was sincere and he was released. One fireman said there might have been a small bonfire the boy saw and that it may have been put out by dump lotters.

VAGRANT SENTENCED

Frank Fellows, Oshkosh, pleaded guilty of vagrancy and was sentenced to 20 days in the county detention camp by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court this morning. City police made the arrest.

New London	3 5 .375

WEDNESDAY NIGHT'S RESULTS

Manitowoc 8, New London 6.

SUNDAY'S GAMES
Seymour at Two Rivers (2 games).
New London at Manitowoc.
Green Bay at Clintonville (night).

CLINTONVILLE — The Clintonville Trucker seconds versus the Clintonville Trucker regulars—that's the way the schedule should read for Sunday evening when the Green Bay Green Sox come to Clintonville with four former Truckers on their squad. The four Sox players who at one time this season showed with the first half champs and leaders of the second half are Lefty Joe Petek, pitcher, Don Gunderson, shortstop, Matt Wagner and Jim Huffman, outfielders. Clintonville moved further ahead in the pennant race last Wednesday night by defeating the Green Sox 3 to 2 in a ten-inning game played at the Bay.

Lefty Joe Petek made his return on the mound almost a success holding the Trucks down to five hits. However, bad fielding on the part of the Sox lost the game for Petek. Two of the other cast-offs of the Trucker squad failed to live up to expectations. Gunderson was charged with two miscues and Huffman was caught napping off first base after being given a walk. Wagner, the fourth man, did not appear in the lineup.

A near capacity crowd is expected Sunday because of the intense rivalry of these two squads. The game last Wednesday provided everything wanted in a ball game, some spots of good fielding, some awfully bad fielding, a little hitting, an extra inning contest, and last of all a near riot which sent three men to the showers. The exchange of fists came in the eighth inning when Ty Steff, sensational second baseman for Clintonville, attempted to steal home and was called out.

Ty Steff is the new hope of the Trucker squad to lead the league in individual batting averages with an even 400 to his credit. Steff plays a sensational second base position, nabbing balls which seem certain to be hits and at the plate can't be stopped. At Green Bay Wednesday evening Steff had four hits for five with one going for a double which puts him on top of the list with nine doubles. Steff had a chance to sign a contract to play everyday ball but decided not to sign until the end of the season.

SEYMOUR IN 2 GAMES
Green Bay — Turning the last quarter in the race to Pennantville, the Northern State league clubs will be up and at it Sunday with four games on the schedule.

With five of the clubs closely bunched and Manitowoc playing a much improved brand of ball, it is still an open chase for the closing lap title. The first heat was won by Clintonville, the 1938 champions. An afternoon doubleheader is booked for Two Rivers with Seymour as the visiting club. The Polar Bears management has invited Coach Johnny Blood and his Pittsburgh Pirates to attend the game and possibly kick a few footballs between innings.

Seymour has Dick Weisberger, Porky Fenzstadler and Arnie Kelly ready for slug assignments while the Cool City club will pin its mound hopes on Lacy Alberts and Andy Fortin, two of the best chuckers in the circuit.

New London invades Manitowoc for an engagement with Al Borth's shipbuilders at the Fairgrounds. With the infield gap plugged by the addition of Weaver, a fast fielding shortstop, the Ships have started to function on 'all nine' and the Londoners may run into some trouble trying to take the bait home.

Decker and Krohn will be the points for New London while Gale Keuckman and Tommy Gray have been named to work for Manitowoc.

The Northern State league moguls staged a very successful meeting at the Two Rivers Thursday night and the report of Treasurer T. A. Nickodem, Seymour, showed the league in a healthy financial condition. President Bernard J. Neumann presided and he informally outlined the tentative set for the playoff series to decide the 1939 bunting.

Tony and Lou Pastor Aren't Worried About 20 Rounds

BY DALE STAFFORD
DETROIT —(AP)— Anything can happen in a horse race — or in boxing — and it may be that the customers who put out $2 to $2.50 to watch Heavyweight Jack Dempsey fight young Bob Pastor Sept. 20 will get more action for their money than any ring crowd in 25 years.

The championship fight, Detroit's first by the way, is scheduled for 20 rounds, the first title 60 of this length to be arranged since Jack Dempsey won the title from big Jess Willard at Toledo in 1919. That fight ended at the close of the third round so the 20 round feature was no bargain.

The last heavyweight championship to last more than 15 rounds was the bout at Havana on April 3, 1915, when Willard lifted the title from Jack Johnson by a knockout in the twenty-sixth.

They Aren't Worried
Both Louis and Pastor are unimpressed by the 20 round phase. "I don't care if its 20 rounds or 50 because I'll set my own limit this time," says Joe, who is still peeved because Pastor stayed the full 10 rounds with him on January 27, 1937.

"I'm in shape all the time and although I've never gone 20 rounds I know that I can," says Pastor, who isn't visibly afraid of the champion.

Pastor may be like the proverbial gent who whistled in the graveyard but he talks a great fight and his reasoning does not sound illogical.

First, Pastor points to the fact that when he met Louis the first time he had engaged in only 23 fights and was appearing in only his third 10 round engagement.

"I have fought many 10 rounds since that fight," says Pastor. Bob also points to his inexperience in 1937 and claims to have improved 100 per cent.

Also, Pastor will carry more weight into the ring this time. In his first bout with Louis the ex-New York University footballer weighed 179 pounds. His fighting weight now is around 190, which means he will be outweighed by "not more than 10 or 11 pounds."

Four Fights and Okay
"Not that first fight Joe hit me solidly four times and I took the punches in good shape," Pastor says. "That's more than most of Louis' opponents have been able to do and a majority of them were groggy after one punch."

Pastor has gone to Saratoga, N. Y. to do his preliminary training. He will appear at a Michigan camp around August 20. Louis is following custom and is at his camp at Stevensville, Mich.

Like Pastor, he will move to a camp near Detroit in mid-August. Meanwhile, plans for converting Briggs Stadium, the home of the Detroit Tigers, into a boxing arena have been completed by Lionel Levy, architect for Promoter Michael Strauss Jacobs. The park will seat 80,000 for the fight.

Lardner, defending champion, traveled the first 18 in 72, one over par, to take a two-stroke lead, but slumped to 76 on the second round.

March, University of Wisconsin star representing the Blackhawk country club of Madison, opened with 76 and improved with a 73.

A playoff for the title and possession of the Mike Levin trophy will be set for next Friday, with 36 holes of play.

donors may run into some trouble trying to take the bait home. Decker and Krohn will be the points for New London while Gale Keuckman and Tommy Gray have been named to work for Manitowoc.

The Northern State league moguls staged a very successful meeting at the Two Rivers Thursday night and the report of Treasurer T. A. Nickodem, Seymour, showed the league in a healthy financial condition. President Bernard J. Neumann presided and he informally outlined the tentative set for the playoff series to decide the 1939 bunting.

One Big Inning Give Yanks Win Over Athletics

World Champions Resume Old Habits; Buck Newsom Cops for Tigers

PHILADELPHIA — (AP)— The world champion Yankees, getting back in their old habit of one big inning, scored six times in the fifth frame yesterday to plaster the Philadelphia Athletics 9 to 5.

Trailing 1 to 0 at the time, the Yanks batted around with two errors and a wild pitch supplementing their six hits. Joe Gordon started it with a walk. Buddy Rosar and Babe Dahlgren singled for one run with Dahlgren going to second on Eric Tipton's fumble.

Lefty Gomez fanned. Frank Crosetti singled two runs across, stole second and went to third on Frank Hayes' bad throw. Then Red Rolfe struck out. Charlie Kelley scored Crosetti with a single. Joe DiMaggio beat out a grounder and George Selkirk singled Keller home. DiMaggio scored on a wild pitch before Gordon fanned on his second trip to the plate.

The Yanks added single runs in the last three innings to round out their margin.

Hayes kept the A's within threatening distance by hitting his ninth homer with two on in the seventh inning, reducing New York's margin to 7-5.

Bill Nagel was expelled in the ninth for protesting a decision at second base.

Cardinal Fans Talk Pennant As Cincy Reds Come to Town

ST. LOUIS —(AP)— Cardinal fans began talking National league pennant over breakfast today and bellhop and vice president closeted "third team" speculation to take in baseball's weekend colossus—the Redbirds-Reds series.

Mighty Cincinnati was in town with a 7 1/2 game lead over today's opponent, the challenging St. Louis Cardinals, who twice this decade have overcome similar margins to enter the world's series.

Primed to nip the Cards' 10-game victory string and squelch any Redbird desires to repeat the feats of 1930 and 1934, Cincinnati Manager Bill McKechnie nominated Bucky Walters to start on the mound.

The Reds 19-game winner probably will face the veteran Lou Warner, who Card Pilot Ray Blades favored as his starter.

A clean sweep for the Reds would boost them 10 1/2 games ahead of the Cardinals — a healthy margin on which to coast through the remaining 50 contests.

Victory today and a sweep of tomorrow's doubleheader by St. Louis would melt the Reds' advantage to 4 1/2 games and leave them a jolted club minus the "unbeatable" 12 games they were with a July lead of 12 games.

The Reds have lost six of their last 11 starts while the Cards were piling up their string.

Both teams were in good physical shape. McKechnie said center fielder Harry Carter was the only player unable to start while Blades declared the only ailing Cardinal was Don Padgett, utility catcher, who has a lame ankle but will be available for reserve batting.

Kimberly All-Stars Beat Kaukauna Team

KIMBERLY — Kimberly all-stars won over Kaukauna juniors 15 to 5 in a recent game. The paper-maker lineup included boys from 10 to 12 years of age. M. Schness, on the mound for Kimberly, allowed ten hits while Giordana, pitching for Kaukauna, was nicked for nine.

Kimberly rallied in the second frame when it more than battered around to score eight runs. J. Thein and L. Gaffney hit homers while C. Treichel doubled. Kaukauna was held scoreless until the fourth frame when it rallied with four scores. It added a run in the sixth inning. The Kimberly American Legion team will play Kaukauna there on Tuesday, Aug. 15, and on the following Thursday, Aug. 17, Kaukauna meets the Paper-makers here.

The junior Red baseballers won over the White Sox 10 to 4 at the playground Wednesday afternoon. B. Van Hammond hit a triple with one on in the fifth frame. M. Friebel pitching for the winners, was nicked for seven hits while J. Smits, pitching for the White Sox, allowed ten hits.

Three hits in the first inning is all that L. Gaffney, on the mound for the Migdets Giants, allowed the Dodgers as the Giants won 13 to 3 Thursday afternoon. In addition to fine pegging, Gaffney also had a perfect day at bat with two homers and a single. C. Schness, third baseman, also had a perfect day at bat with the same count. J. Hanges hit a homer in the second frame.

The Giants won both first and second half in baseball. The Cards and Yanks will play for second place with the winners receiving K's.

Homer in Ninth Defeats Brewers; Score Is 4 to 3

Johnny Hill Leads Milwaukee With 3 Hits; One Is 4-Bagger

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)— A home run by Buck Fausett won the last of the ninth inning gave Minneapolis a 4 to 3 victory over Milwaukee last night.

Fausett's blow handed Herb Hash, young Minneapolis right-hander, his seventeenth victory of the season after it appeared he would bow in a neat pitching duel with Lefty Ed Carnett of the Brewers.

The homer was Fausett's second of the season. Hash allowed only seven hits while fanning ten and not walking a man, but Carnett was just as good until the fatal ninth. It was Minneapolis' sixth straight victory.

Johnny Hill, with three hits including a homer, led the Brewer attack. Ted Gullic also homered for Milwaukee, neither blow coming with a man on base.

The score:
Milwaukee 000 001 110-3 7
Minneapolis 000 002 002-4 9
Carnett and Just; Hash and Lacy.

Bill Matheson, batting for Pitcher Frank Makosky, tripled two runs across the plate last night to give Kansas City a 7 to 3, 1-inning decision over St. Paul in the first game of a double bill. The nightcap was called at the end of five scoreless innings to allow the Blues to catch a train.

Don French pitched Indianapolis to a 4 to 0 triumph over Toledo, third baseman Don Lang's two home runs and two singles accounting for all the runs. It was the third straight game in which the Mudhens have not scored a run.

Nate Andrews was the villain for Louisville, yielding the Colonels only three hits as Columbus won, 3 to 0. On Thursday night the Colonels gleamed only two hits off Columbus pitching, giving them a meager five hits for the two games.

Waldorf Doesn't Have to Worry About De Correvant's Studies

BY EDDIE BRIEFZ
NEW YORK —(AP)— Week's wash: Helen Wells Moody's new detective thriller has been tabbed Grade A by the book critics. They say Bill Terry really made a speech when Burgess Whitehead went on the air the other night and predicted the Baer family will win the pennant. The Baer family is in a huddle on Max's future as a boxer — also on Buddy Baer vs. Jack Roper Los Angeles is trying to cook up.

Murphy Ruling on Hatch Bill Causes Political Surprise

Attorney General Yields To President's Interpretation — Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington — Political Washington, Republican and Democratic, rubbed its eyes with amazement and surprise today as it read the first rulings by Attorney General Murphy on the Hatch law to "purify" politics.

Mr. Murphy is a newcomer in Washington and during the last several months has won a reputation for soundness of thinking and a courage to fight against political expediency. His ruling, however, has caused many a person to ask if the attorney general has not made surrender to the cause of expediency in his first major conflict with the inner urge of the statute whose meaning and purpose have been almost unanimously supported by the public opinion of the country.

The attorney general says, first, that the 30,000 non-civil service employees are free to express political preferences publicly — by radio, if desired — but that the 600,000 covered by civil service rules are not. It is true that Mr. Murphy does not write the civil service rules and that they can be changed overnight by an executive order of the president. But all federal employees are covered by the same ban whether or not they are in the civil service. They can also be changed back overnight so that civil service employees can enjoy the same privileges which now are to be given to non-civil service employees.

Public Expression
The next thing the attorney general says is that because the writers of the law did not say explicitly that political preferences shall be expressed privately, it means any form of public expression is permitted.

Anybody who knows politics at all recognizes that the essence of public campaigning is public expression so as to influence other voters. If 300,000 federal employees can go about expressing their preference publicly, the citizenry will not long be left in doubt as to how the persons with official authority in their respective communities would like to have them vote.

Mr. Murphy relies on a paragraph from President Roosevelt's message to congress interpreting the Hatch law. In that message the president said:

"I have been asked whether they (government employees) would lose their positions if they should merely express their opinion or preference publicly — orally, by radio, or in writing — without doing so as part of an organized political campaign. The answer is no."

In that foregoing interpretation, Mr. Roosevelt went on the assumption that to speak over the radio is like a private conversation or that, even if it is a public conversation, the statements made can be detached from any "organized political campaign."

Open To Attack
Mr. Roosevelt will be criticized by many people as indulging in a strained interpretation of the law so as to benefit officeholders in the Democratic party. Whatever the president said in his message about the Hatch bill being a "step in the right direction" will be open to attack if he insists on the interpretation that a radio speech can be a private affair.

What is most surprising, however, hereabouts is that the attorney general, who manfully withstood all pressure from the politicians to hold that the Hatch bill violates the constitution, now has yielded to the executive's interpretation of the supposed difference between a public and private radio speech. It may be that Mr. Murphy examined the law and saw that the only penalty for violating the particular provision in question was the loss of a job for the offending officeholder and neither imprisonment nor fine. Under such circumstances he may have said to himself that dismissal is an executive prerogative anyhow, and if Mr. Roosevelt chooses to say he will not fire an employee for this or that offense, he can do so because there is nothing in the law which dismises the attorney general for breach of duty nor is there any compulsion upon an attorney general to repudiate a president for making such a political decision in interpreting his function as an employee.

Enviably Record
The country as a whole, however, will begin to pass judgment on Mr. Murphy as a dispenser of justice and will ask if he is beginning to yield to political expediency. The actions of the department of justice in other fields would then become suspect. The attorney general has thus far made an enviable record of standing for strict interpretation of the law without political influence. The Hatch bill is big enough as a matter of principle so that were such an issue presented between a cabinet secretary and the prime minister in Great Britain, the former would resist rather than accept an interpretation plainly contrary to what the people wanted and congress insisted upon when it adopted by overwhelming vote a bill designed clearly to keep federal jobholders out of politics. Congress did not sanction the use of technicalities to whittle away a statute designed to make for clean government.

As was said in these dispatches when the Hatch bill was passed, the measure isn't worth the paper it is written on if it isn't enforced and the first indications are that the department of justice — the enforcement agency — is agreeing with the politicians in the Democratic party in weakening the effects of the new law by public statements narrowing the scope of the statute.

SATURDAY TALK

Last Saturday we had several letters from readers who spoke of milk snakes which had taken milk from cows. Today we shall have still another letter, which comes from Mrs. Edward Wieske of Huntington Park, Calif. She writes:

"I want to say that I have seen a snake milk a cow. This happened 31 years ago, when I was 12 years old. We lived on a farm at Packwaukee, Wisconsin. One of our cows was slowly drying up. One way of making a cow go dry is to milk a small amount each day, and father thought one of the calves which had just been weaned must be causing the trouble.

"So I was sent to watch this cow. Each day she would go to a certain corner of the pasture. The second day, to my amazement, a large snake rose up and took hold of the cow's udder. The udder of this cow was about 14 inches above the ground.

"The cow did not move, so the snake could not have been biting her. I was about 40 yards away and started chasing her. The snake held on for about a hundred feet, and then dropped off.

"I told my father, and he would not believe it. So the next day, he came out at noon, and watched the same thing happen. Father killed the snake, which was about three and a half feet long. If the snake was not milking our cow, what was it doing?"

The letters I have received on this subject have come chiefly from readers living east of the Rocky mountains are common. A number of snake experts have declared that it is "just a myth" that milk snakes take milk from cows. They say the name was given by mistake, since these snakes often are seen in and about milk houses and dairies. The statement is made that the reptiles come to barns to obtain mice, not milk.

Cooler Weather Still Unsafe For Unprotected Food Items

The advent of occasionally cooler weather has little bearing on food preservation, points out the Lutz Ice Company, because temperatures that feel cool by comparison are actually far above the safety level maintained by the famous air-conditioned Coolerator.

"Keep all foods protected in a cold washed-air atmosphere," advises this firm, "except while they are being prepared or served."

Coolerator is famous for giving this type of protection at amazingly low cost. Coolerator owners have known for years that dishes can be left uncovered and that fruits and vegetables stay fresher in the washed air atmosphere created by pure, manufactured ice. Actually, Coolerator's performance in this regard is believed to be superior to mechanical units costing two to three times as much.

In addition to distributing the entire Cooperator line one can be tried out at home for 10 days without obligation — and sparkling-clear manufactured ice, the Lutz firm maintains a complete line of fuel, including coal and coke, and fuel buyers are urged to consult with the company now, while low summer prices are in effect.

A bin filled now with quality coal, by courteous, careful deliverymen, will be a real source of satisfaction when cool weather rolls around, the Lutz company maintains.

Beirnard Moves To New Location On Appleton St.

Piano Rental Can be Applied to Final Purchase Price

The C. A. Beirnard Piano Store, noted for its wide selection of pianos and other musical instruments at exceptionally low prices, has completed a major change this week by moving to a new location at 304 N. Appleton street. The larger headquarters, it is believed, will make possible even better service than before.

Featuring the big line of new Story and Clark, Kimball, and other pianos, with emphasis on the new spinet models, is a convenient rental plan which enables the user to apply his rental payments on the purchase price of the piano. Moreover, the firm will take old pianos in trade on new models.

A new feature at Beirnard's is the piano accordion department in which accordion purchases and instruction are combined into small, easy payments. Teachers of the accordion classes are now forming under Beirnard sponsorship in Appleton and nearby communities.

Band instruments and instrument repair service, another division of the Beirnard firm, will be maintained as before. Prospective owners of instruments, plus owners whose instruments require repair, are invited to visit Beirnard's soon. Prices are moderate.

Mr. Beirnard has extended an invitation to all music lovers to visit his new store and to inspect his fine line of expertly built pianos and other instruments.

Need Amendments To Wisconsin Law Covering Pension

Changes Necessary for State, Counties to Receive Federal Aid

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The special legislative joint committee created to consider the large number of pension proposals introduced in the legislature has been advised that amendments to Wisconsin pension laws are necessary in order for the state and counties to take advantage of some of the important changes in the federal social security law enacted during the congressional session just ended. It has been learned.

The federal law as amended makes available a 50 per cent contribution for old-age pensions up to $40. But Wisconsin's law sets $30 as a maximum. In order for the state to benefit from the changes, the maximum will have to be changed to coincide with the federal limit.

Moreover, with the exception of federal cases, Wisconsin old-age pensions fall far short of the $40 federal maximum. Therefore, in order for the state to receive more federal funds, the state will have to contribute more of its own.

The committee has also been informed by pension administration experts that a change in the federal law requiring local pension administrative employees to be on a merit basis, under the supervision of the federal social security board, will probably also require a change in the state law. That change is the most important from the standpoint of the counties, who have complete charge of their pension personnel at present.

Another requirement under the new federal act provides for safeguarding the details of pension administration, such as the payrolls in the county pension departments. It was pointed out that such a rule will make impossible the use of names of pension beneficiaries for political purposes, such as the celebrated LaFollette pension letters last fall.

A new federal amendment also allows for eligibility of children up to 18 years for federal benefits under the dependent children's pension program, if they are attending school. It is required, however, that the state provide a uniform basis of application, so that all counties will make children up to 18 eligible.

Wisconsin now allows benefits to be paid to children up to 21, but federal benefits are obtained only up to 16 years. Therefore, at present those counties which allow the more liberal age limits are paying more of the charges out of their own and the state treasuries.

Young Republicans to Attend State Meeting

Plans for sending a delegation to the state convention of Young Republicans will be made at a meeting of the county organization at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the courthouse. Delegates to the 2-day state meeting at Sheboygan Friday and Saturday, Aug. 25 and 26 will be named. State officers will be elected at Sheboygan.

GOLD SEAL COLDSPOT MAKES BIG HIT

Because of its beauty of design, as well as utility, the 1939 "Gold Seal" Coldspot is conceded to be one of the outstanding refrigerator models of the year. This, and other models, are now on display at the Sears, Roebuck and Co. store, 103 E. College Ave.

The most important step in the development of this new line, according to C. T. Teel, manager of the local Sears store, was the rigid testing the various models had to withstand before they were accepted.

"To reach satisfactory conclusions as to the quality, durability and usability of the new Coldspot," explained Mr. Teel, "hand constructed models were placed in the 'torture chamber' of Sears famous merchandise testing laboratories. Here they were subjected to tests that were far more extreme and severe than any that a refrigerator might have to endure in normal use."

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

an indigent relation of the head of the house, suffering from some mild form of imbecility. To cater to her, Mr. Adams had doubtless given her this post of housekeeper which she held in name only. Because she was nuts. Incontrovertibly nuts.

Bitterly the Chiseler cursed the cupid which had led him to ascend the rainpout. But no use trying to undo the past. The only thing for it now was to come out from behind this screen, watch his chance and grab her throat. Then he would have to gag her and lock her in the closet. He disliked these measures intensely. But there was no help for it now. He was confronted by an inferior mentality against which subtlety would be unavailing.

Conscious of the loud note struck by his under pants he stepped from behind the screen somewhat sheepishly.

"I want my trousers," he said in a pettish voice.

"Now, now," said Mrs. Dissang. "What did I tell you?"

The Chiseler, in a casual manner, inched nearer.

"Tell me, Mrs. Dissang," he said, with apparent irrelevance, "about how many servants would a house like this have?"

"Well now, let's see," Mrs. Dissang computed on her fingers.

"There's Mr. Matherton, he's the butler. And Marcel, the chef. Then there's Higginson."

She broke off abruptly, emitting a subdued cry. The Chiseler, hands stretching for her throat, was bearing down upon her like a ferocious species of whiskered grampus in red-and-white underwear.

But the outstretched hands didn't quite make it. With unexpected agility Mrs. Dissang was out of her chair. Still clutching the trousers, she ducked under the Chiseler's arms and slid around behind the chair.

"See here," she panted breathlessly. "You go straight back and sit down. Or I'll scream. I really will. You oughtn't to be running around in your underpants, anyhow. 'Tisn't decent."

But the Chiseler had made up his mind. He glowered at Mrs. Dissang over the back of the chair. Then he made a sweeping lunge around it.

It was the wrong move. It had the effect of driving Mrs. Dissang to desperate measures. She glanced wildly at his grasping fingers and backed against the wall. She was somewhat terrified. The gentleman's mania had suddenly taken a violent form but, for all that, she didn't intend to lose him. He was a gift from the gods and it was her job to take charge of him and nurse him back to sanity. But she couldn't do it if he were to repossess himself of his trousers and depart. And, at this point, there was but one way of preventing him from doing precisely that.

With a quick movement of her right hand, she flung the trousers out of the window.

HERE'S IDEA THAT INCREASES LETTERS

"She'll be returning to college soon," observes the J. M. Van Rooy Printing company, 127 N. Appleton street, "and what gift could make her happier or assure YOU of more frequent letters than an adequate supply of her own personalized letter paper?"

The Van Rooy firm, located in the rear of the Appleton hotel building and easily available by telephoning 1054, and its offerings include not only smart, personalized stationery, but every type of business form and other kinds of job printing. Van Rooy's charges are low and the work is excellent.

Plan Painting Now Before Variable Weather Arrives

Nehls Company Ready to Assist in Making Good Choice

While many weeks of pleasant weather lie ahead, it's wise to plan house painting as soon as possible, point out Wm. Nehls & Son, 226 W. Washington street. Exterior painting always goes more quickly and satisfactorily when the work can be done without interruption from storms and cold weather.

Meanwhile, the Nehls firm suggests an early visit to select new wallpapers and interior color schemes so that when the fall season rolls around, homes will be far more livable and pleasant. Nehls' moderate prices make it possible to do over several rooms at remarkably low cost.

By wise planning and careful selection—with the aid of experts from Nehls—the lightness and charm of sunny days can be captured and maintained in room decoration all through the dark fall and winter months. This happy combination is achieved with both wallpaper and paint, or by painting in rooms where wallpaper is not used.

A visit to Nehls' headquarters will do much to help the prospective customer make the proper selections, or a Nehls' representative will be glad to bring a wide assortment of samples directly to the home. In any event, Nehls representatives plan the prospect under absolutely no obligation, and estimates are given without charge.

Music Training Now Adds to Fun During Dark Days

Brighten Fall and Winter With Good Entertainment

The youngster who has begun to learn to play a musical instrument during the summer vacation days is in for real pleasure all during the coming fall and winter months, says the Van Zeeland Music Co., 128 N. Appleton street. The Van Zeeland firm, which has trained hundreds of people of all ages in music, knows this situation as the direct result of long experience.

Only a few weeks ago the firm celebrated its eleventh anniversary and, since its founding, has grown by leaps and bounds. This growth, it is believed, is directly attributable to the modern, scientific methods used to teach students how to play without dull, uninteresting exercises.

It is the Van Zeeland technique which makes it possible for a student of practically any age to start playing within the next few weeks and, by the time "indoor" days are here, be enjoying the fun of self-created music.

A visit to the big Van Zeeland headquarters, where a complete music establishment is maintained, will bring all details, including the pleasant surprise of unusually low cost.

Children will be admitted to the second year group if they are five years of age and have satisfactorily completed the work of the first year group.

Children entering kindergarten from school systems not maintaining kindergartens are eligible for entrance at the date of established residence in Appleton. Children who are ill during September may be entered by their parents providing a statement regarding the child's illness is presented to the teacher.
